Convinced and Excited

In last week's message I talked about my reluctance to believe every fantastic thing that someone tells me. I shared with you my father's cautionary statement, "If it sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't true." Being pessimistic by nature and inheritance, I have a tendency to believe that every good thing comes with a cost or hidden disadvantage. Statements like: "People told me to cheer up, things could be worse. So I cheered up, and sure enough, they got worse;" seem to carry the wisdom of time and my own experience within them. I tend to be cautious and slow to believe and decide. On the other hand, once I am convinced of something and understand it, I am often quite enthusiastic and excited to share and promote it.

As we continue to hear the stories of Jesus's appearances to His disciples on the day of the resurrection, I am reminded of how human nature seems not to have changed over the last 2,000 years. At least three of the disciples gathered together have met Jesus on this Easter Sunday. Simon Peter had met Jesus early in the morning and Cleopas and his companion met Jesus as they retreated from Jerusalem to Emmaus. As they are rejoicing and speaking about this great news, Jesus appears to them, and all of the disciples retreat into their own doubts. They try to explain Jesus' presence in the only way their imaginations can understand it, they are afraid that what they are seeing is a ghost. In an effort to convince them that He is real, Jesus shows them his hands and his feet, and finally eats in front of them. The disciples are filled with joy and then Jesus teaches them. Using Sacred Scripture, he shows his disciples in a way understandable to them. He shows them that the Christ had to suffer, die and rise for their salvation. He ushers the disciples from darkness into light, from sorrow into joy and from ignorance into knowledge. He prepares them to share the experience of the resurrection. This wondrous act of our loving God is not just for them, but it must spread across the face of the earth. The experience of God's love poured out in Jesus' death and resurrection is for all people, in all places and for all times. The disciples, who know the joy of new life in the Lord, are called to share that new life with others.

As I continue to journey through these days, I am blessed to be taught the ways of the resurrection by the Lord. It is difficult at times to open my heart and mind to what the Lord is teaching, but each day I pray to be an attentive and eager student. With my heart and life firmly fixed on the promise of the resurrection, the path is less arduous. The shadows I walk in are surrounded by the bright light of hope.

Let us pray that this Easter season might find us convinced of the Lord's presence among us, open to being taught by the Lord, and ready to share the saving mercy of God poured out in Christ. May we become joyful bearers of the message of salvation.

We praise God that as their faithful protector, you never hesitated to sacrifice for those entrusted to you. May your example inspire us also to welcome, cherish, and safeguard God's most precious gift of life. Help us to faithfully commit ourselves to the service and defense of human life-especially where it is vulnerable or threatened. Obtain for us the grace to do the will of God in all things. Amen.
